I am currently the head of the Infectious Diseases and High Level Isolation Units at La Paz Hospital, and associate professor of Medicine at Autonoma University School of Medicine Madrid, Spain. I received my medical degree from the Complutense University School of Medicine, Madrid. Following this, I completed my residency in Internal Medicine at La Paz Hospital before going on to pursue a fellowship in Infectious Diseases at Washington University, St. Louis, Missouri, USA.

My research interests include antiretroviral therapy, development of new antiretrovirals and emerging infectious. As the head of the High Level Isolation Unit of La Paz Hospital I coordinated the team who took care of 3 EVD and on CCHF cases.
